Ahead of Rugby World Cup in Japan in September 2019, teams are playing warm up matches as buildup to the event. The French national team is playing against Scotland and Italy in France as their buildup matches towards the 2019 Rugby World Cup.

France will face Scotland at the Allianz Riviera in Nice on Sunday 18th August in the first match. France beat a weakened Scotland team 27-10 during this year's Six Nations. France and Scotland have contested a total of 93 rugby test matches since their first meeting in 1910. France have won 54 of those matches, whilst Scotland have won 36 matches. There have also been three drawn matches between the two sides.

The French Rugby Team will play their last match against Italy at State de France on Saturday, August 31st before the start of the Rugby World Cup in September. France and Italy have played each other at rugby union a total of 40 matches, with France winning 37 times, Italy winning 3 times, and no matches drawn. Since 2007, the winner of the meeting between the teams in the Six Nations Tournament has received the Giuseppe Garibaldi Trophy.
